DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election without traverse of Claims 1-13, drawn to Group 1 in the reply filed on 5/5/05 is acknowledged.

Claims 14-44 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to nonelected inventions, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on 5/5/05.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1,2, 7-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Fu et al., US Patent No. 6,744,293.

Regarding Claims 1, 2, 7-13, Fu et al. discloses in Figure 1 an apparatus comprising: a phase detector (106) adapted to determine a phase difference between at least two input signals (left two arrows); a first circuit (108) adapted to generate a control signal based upon the determined phase difference; and a second circuit (102 and 104) adapted to receive a first signal (103); receive a second signal (101); modify the second signal (output of 102, i.e. 109) based upon the control signal (output of 108); and provide the modified first signal (output of 104) and the modified second signal (109) as input signals to the phase detector (106, 109 becomes 103 which are both input signals to the phase detector, 106).

Art Unit: 2817

Regarding Claims 7-9, 12, Figure shows the phase detector recited in the claims.

Regarding Claim 11, the digital filter 108 is inherently performing the functional recitation.

Regarding Claim 13, second circuit including 113 comprises a hysteresis adjuster (Col. 2, lines 62-64).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 4-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fu et al., US Patent No. 6,744,293.

As discussed above, Fu et al. discloses an apparatus as recited in the claims including a second circuit and the second circuit has a variable delay unit. However, Fu et al. does not explicitly disclose a number of delay elements and a fixed delay element. As would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art would have recognized that such number of elements and combined with fixed delay element are in the variable delay unit 102 because such elements are necessary to perform the required alignment of timing and phases of incoming clock signal so that the delay lock circuit of Fu et al. can properly de-skew a "global clock".

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 3 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: the best prior art of record, Fu et al., taken alone or in combination of other references, does not teach or fairly suggest the phase detector to determine a phase difference between the modified first signal and the modified second signal.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-44 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
